Construction Ecosystem

Safety. Quality. Budget. Schedule. No matter the size, construction projects face an endless number of risks. At AXA XL, we're committed to helping our customers mitigate construction risks through the use of technology. By partnering with leading-edge construction technologies, we support our customers' innovation and technology adoption goals.

What is the Construction Ecosystem?

Our Construction Ecosystem is a digital network of innovative products and services focused on advancing technology adoption and leveraging data to solve customers' problems, enhance their construction risk management efforts, and support their business goals.

Our mission is to advance construction risk management and improve customer profitability through technology adoption and innovation. We accomplish this by:

- Curating valuable technology solutions with preferred pricing and/or terms for our customers.
- Developing new, innovative insurance products that benefit tech-savvy contractors.
- Cultivating a network of knowledge-sharing and trusted partnerships that advances innovation across the construction industry.

Our core offerings include:

- Tech Library: a collection of curated construction technology solutions with whom we've leveraged our market presence to drive favorable terms for our customers. Using the Tech Library, customers can easily search and filter to find the right technology for their business risks and innovation goals.
- Technology Adoption Maturity Index (TAMI): a risk engineering benchmarking service that evaluates a customer's level of construction technology adoption against their industry peers.
- Highly Protected Project (HPP): a new underwriting class of business, bundling a policy with construction technology to reduce risk on a per-project basis.
