

DPRCG: It's where you fit in

Be part of a large firm risk management community...

Large architect, engineer and environmental consulting firms face special risks.

They require custom insurance and loss prevention programs—like those offered by AXA XL in partnership with the Design Professionals Risk Control Group (DPRCG).

Since 1988 DPRCG members have included some of the most recognized names in the design professions.

It's an exclusive group of firms with a demonstrated commitment to loss prevention and practice management improvement.

There's nothing quite like the practical advice you get from someone who walks in your shoes.

Among the many tangible benefits of DPRCG membership, one of the greatest is the annual DPRCG Convocation. The Convocation provides an unparalleled event for attendees to network with true peers and focus on new solutions to the myriad of problems and pitfalls faced by large firms. The two-day meeting also provides information easily shared with staff unable to attend, a valuable membership benefit.

Research, articles, and series developed by AXA XL and DPRCG members.

The aim is to help improve large firm practice and risk management by spreading the DPRCG loss prevention philosophy at a cultural level within members' organizations. All staff may tap into training and advice via the suite of member benefits.
