EARTHQUAKE HAZARD ZONES – GLOBAL

AXA XL Risk Consulting exposure evaluations for earthquake zones for countries around the world are noted in the following Guidelines. The zone numbers are evolved from the Applied Technology Council (ATC) zones developed for U.S. maps. Zones entered are considered comparable to U.S. counterparts.

General background information on the subject of earthquake and an intensity comparison chart, i.e., MM U.S. Vs MM for various internationally recognized scales, is provided in PRC.15.2.

Listings within the countries listed do not include all cities within the respective zone. A sufficient number of localities are usually provided to identify broad earthquake zones. In order to aid with the identification of an earthquake zone of a specific nonlisted city, a detailed atlas should be used.

The following is an index for the countries
